

MRS. T. POPPLE –Classroom Rules and Expectations

Student Name: _____

Please refer to your student handbook for any questions on school/board policies. Below are rules and expectations which are used in this classroom.

You are expected to arrive to class on time! Please bring a note regarding your lateness and/or absence to class with you. If you are frequently late there will be consequences (detentions, parent contact, Vice-Principal involvement).

*If you are absent on a test day you must provide a note from your parent/guardian the day you return, stating he/she knew you missed a test during your absence. A mark of zero will result if you do not write your test the day of your return.

You must come to class prepared each day. This means that you will need your notebook, textbook, pens, pencils, highlighters, paper, all assignments daily.

* When an assignment is due DO NOT come to class and expect to then print off the assignment. Print your work the night before or print it before class in guidance or in the library! Issues come up, be sure your parents contact me explaining any problems with assignments.

Food and drinks are permitted in the classroom on the following conditions:

- a. No sunflower/safflower oil products (ruffles, lays, sun chips, etc.) I have a severe allergy to these products. I am also allergic to all nuts but feel free to bring in granola bars and such to snack on...just no mixed nuts or whole nuts please. Cafeteria and vending machine items are NOT safe!
- b. Check with me before you eat please!
- c. You must clean up after yourself.

Cell phones are a part of most people's daily lives. I understand this! I also know that I will always have you, my students as my #1 focus...not my phone. They may be used as an organizational tool (calendar) or to send reminders to yourself (email), but only at appropriate times (you will be given time at the end of class). Please ensure that these do not interfere with your learning. My job is to ensure that this happens! Parents can contact the office, who will then call up to class, if there is an emergency.

Late assignments should be avoided. You will always be given adequate notice for assignments. Late marks will be deducted and marks of zero will be given. Please see me should an emergency situation arise.

I understand the requirements and rules to be followed in this class:
